

PSIA/AASI Intermountain Board of Directors Election

Applications to run for the Board of Directors are Due Feb 15, 2021. Here is some information about the Board and about the election process to help you decide if you would like to run for a seat

What do they do?

The Intermountain Division Board of Directors consists of PSIA-AASI members who volunteer their time and expertise to the board. According to the National Council of Nonprofits “Board members are the fiduciaries who steer the organization towards a sustainable future by adopting sound, ethical, and legal governance and financial management policies, as well as making sure the nonprofit has adequate resources to advance its mission.”

IMD Board Members are responsible for the strategic management of our nonprofit corporation. They represent the membership, ski schools and the Intermountain Division. The board operates following our Policies and Procedures along with our Bylaws.

What should members want and need from their Directors?

We all want a board member who has passion for the organization, a willingness to volunteer their time, and the desire to be a leader. A board member should have a team-oriented attitude. The board member works to speak with one voice for the entire board. IMD seeks a diversity of professional expertise including across disciplines, cultural backgrounds, spectrum of life experience and geographic reach in our board members.

What does the board Do?

The board meets three times a year in the Salt Lake City vicinity. Beginning with the summer meeting, there is a strategic planning session that reviews membership and event data, and financials of the organization. This is a fact-based assessment of our financial stability and a review of the membership's needs. The board approves the budget and reviews and revises policies as needed. The board is also fun! We plan the Spring Clinic, discuss new ideas for education, work with the National organization, and overall learn how our organization that we belong to runs!
